$800 ADDED TO

C. OF C. FUND IN LAST 24 HOURS

J. P. Hetzler Says Disinterest Is Killing Project

CHARGES NON-SUPPORT

Says Down-Town Property Owners Have Failed to Help

Lack of interest and co-operation on the part of the large property owners in the business district of Columbia is causing the defeat of the Stephens College expansion program, it was stated at the Chamber of Commerce officers' today when only $800 had been added to the fund for active soliciting committees since yesterday.

After four days of active solicitation in the campaign, less than half of the full amount is available, while practically three-fourths of the territory in the business district has been canvassed, according to the statement.

Increase Small in Four Days Tuesday of this week, when active solicitation started, the committee had raised $21,900 in pledges. In the four days since with the committees working in the four business districts, only $3205 has been added to the amount, $800 of which has been contributed since the report at noon yesterday. If the goal is reached, a total of $24,895 remains yet to be subscribed.

"Property owners in the business district have not done their part in raising this fund," J. P. Hetzler, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said. "They do not realize that a building program such as is projected would increase property values to very material extent. In a great many instances they will be direct beneficiaries and in most cases indirect benefits will accrue to them in larger proportions than any other class of persons in Columbia; yet very few of the large property owners, as the subscription list will show, have contributed to the fund."

Merchants Support Program "The merchants of Columbia have supported this program as they have all other programs and if it fails it cannot be laid at their doors. It seems to me that it is time the public became familiar with the attitude of large property holders on programs of this sort."

"It is true that a few of the property holders have contributed and they are the few that always contribute to these programs. Some of the others are considering the proposition and it is to be hoped that they will decide as soon as possible to take the part that they should and which the business interests of the city expect of them."

Additional subscriptions since yesterday: 23 Transfer & Storage Co., $400; Boswell Dry Goods Co., 100; John Hickman, 100; G. B. Phillips, 100; H. A. Collier, 50; Ruby M. Hulien, 50.

PART OF HIGHWAY 63 AGAIN CLOSED

Officials State Section Will Be Reopened Sunday

Weather conditions have not been favorable to let the cement dry thoroughly. Beam tests, which are now being made show that the road is not dry enough and will not stand heavy loads.

COURTS DISCUSS NEW BRIDGE Boone and Callaway County Representatives Meet Today The members of the county courts of Boone and Callaway counties met this morning at the bridge spanning Cedar Creek on the Fulton Gravel Road, about ten miles east of Columbia, and conference was held with representatives of the State Highway Department concerning the method to be used in replacing the bridge at this point, which was washed out by floods last spring.

The Highway Department had removed a steel bridge and replaced it with one of concrete while this road was being used as a detour before the completion of Highway 40. Following the floods of last spring, the department agreed to replace the washed-out bridge, provided the bond issue submitted to voters last fall carried.

The issue carried and the department, now that it has money to replace the bridge, is expected to start work soon.

The conference today was held to give an opportunity for a preliminary discussion. The highway department has requested the county courts to insure a right-of-way on each side of the bridge for 500 feet, and it is thought that the bridge to be constructed will be forty feet longer than the one it replaces.

A span of the old bridge, about forty feet long, was left by the floods. This span will be used in the construction being planned.

GIVES NO MONEY TO HEALTH UNIT

Welfare Society Hires Nurse, Who Works With County

A serious misunderstanding has resulted from the co-operation of the Public Welfare Society and the County Health Unit, it was said by Dr. F. C. Suggett, county physician.

"The idea is prevalent," he said, "that the Welfare Society gives the Health Unit $2000 a year. The truth of the matter is that the nurse they hire is merely allowed to work with us, and the money paid her for her salary is written into our budget. Thus, the state matches our budget with additional state funds, and we get more money for work in Columbia than in the county."

The Welfare Society was employing a nurse when the Health Unit was established, Suggett said, and on the request of the society she was allowed to work under the direction of the larger Health Unit. The present public welfare nurse is Mrs. Adde Klumpton.

ANOTHER USE FOR PENNIES Cigarette-Vending Machines May Be Installed Here, Clerk Says The city clerk has received an inquiry from solicitors of a firm that wishes to install several cigarette-vending machines in Columbia.

The letter was from Taylor, Eastman & Company of Tulsa, and asked for information as to the city ordinances covering the installation of such machines, and the price of a license to run them. According to the letter several of the machines may be brought into Columbia, and it will be possible to put in a cent turn a crank, and take out a cigarette in the same fashion that we can now get a stick of chewing gum or a candy ball.

John S. Bicknell, city clerk, searched the city tax ordinances but found no provision for a penny cigarette machine. He decided that the ordinance covering the matter properly is one ordering a license fee of $1 per year for the selling of cigarettes and other articles of tobacco to be assessed on each machine. In addition to this municipal license fee, there will be a county fee of $1, according to the city clerk.

HOUSE CARES FOR CRIPPLES IN RESOLUTION

$2900 Granted for January and February Expenses

SENATE MUST CONCUR

Sum for Biennium Not to Be Less Than for Last Bill Provides

In the Missouri Assembly Today By United Press SENATE—Considers amended salary bill to fix governor's salary at $8000 and other elective officers at $6000. Committee appointments. Continue introduction of bills. Newly appointed committees meet.

By a Staff Correspondent JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 11.—Operation of the crippled children's service at the University Hospital during the next few months and an appropriation of an amount not less than that of the last biennium was provided for by a resolution passed by the House this afternoon.

Under the resolution, in which the Senate must concur, the state treasurer is directed to release $1468.29 for January and the same amount for February for paying operating expenses.

William Freedland, Cole County representative, and majority floor leader, in presenting the resolution explained that the fund of $30,000 appropriated for crippled children's work two years ago had been exhausted. He said that if the work in Columbia was to continue that an emergency appropriation would have to be raised.

Jones Parker, speaker of the House, stressed need of funds to care for the crippled children at the University Hospital. He explained that a fund was raised in St. Louis when the last appropriation was expended and that that fund had also been expended.

To carry on the service which has been greatly increased during the last two years, Stratten D. Smith, president of the Missouri Association of Crippled Children, had secured an appropriation of $200,000 for 1928-30.
